

LET YOUR VOICES BE HEARD IN ASEAN

Child Rights
Coalition Asia

Save the Children®

Let Your Voice Be Heard in ASEAN

1. THE CRC RIGHTS HOLDERS AND DUTY BEARERS

All children have rights. Rights are what all children have and are able to do as persons such as the right to have a name and nationality, the right to health, the right to play and the right to be free from abuse and exploitation.

Your rights as children are described in a very important document called the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC).

In the place where you live, your parents, neighbors, church, school, community leaders, local governments, and other adults around you bear the responsibility to make sure that your rights as a child under the UNCRC are achieved and respected. In your country, your government and leaders have the duty to make and effectively apply rules and guidelines that would benefit you and other children.

In Southeast Asia, your national government is part of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations or ASEAN, which is a group made up of all ten Southeast Asian countries.

Here is the map of Southeast Asia and the logo of ASEAN!

2. WHAT IS ASEAN?

The ten countries that make up ASEAN are: Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Indonesia, Lao People's Democratic Republic, Malaysia, Myanmar, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, and Vietnam.

One of ASEAN's main goals is to make sure that rights of children are fulfilled and protected.

In recent years, three other countries in Asia decided to cooperate with the ten ASEAN member countries, and these are China, Japan, and the Republic of Korea. Together, these thirteen countries are known as ASEAN Plus Three.

CHINA

JAPAN

KOREA

The ASEAN was established in August 8, 1967, when the countries mentioned above signed the ASEAN Declaration. The ASEAN Declaration is a document which contains the goals of ASEAN and describes how countries will work together.

The ASEAN's office is located in Jakarta, Indonesia. It is headed by the ASEAN Secretary General and is supported by the ASEAN Secretariat.

The ASEAN Secretariat has a very important role of helping plan, coordinate, and conduct activities of ASEAN officials.

3. WHY WAS ASEAN CREATED?

You might be wondering how and why ASEAN was created. Before ASEAN's establishment, there were conflicts among some Asian countries over certain issues.

Children suffer
the most in times of conflict.

Leaders must ensure that all children have access to food, shelter, and other services for them to survive and develop and be protected from harm and abuse.

The formation of ASEAN helped these quarreling nations come together to solve their problems peacefully by talking with each other. In ASEAN, member countries promise to be friends and cooperate for peace, security, freedom and prosperity in the Southeast Asian region.

4. WHAT ARE THE SPECIFIC COMMITMENTS OF ASEAN TO CHILDREN¹ AND THE YOUTH²?

ASEAN has signed many documents to show its commitment to and concern for children. It has approved several declarations which emphasize the importance of empowering and training children and youth, promoting children's and youth's meaningful participation in matters that affect them, promoting and respecting children's rights, and protecting children from all forms of violence and abuse everywhere.

Declaration Against Trafficking in Persons Particularly Women and Children (2004)

Declaration on the Elimination of Violence Against Women in the ASEAN Region (2004)

Declaration on the Protection and Promotion of the Rights of Migrant Workers (2007)

ASEAN Charter (2007)

Ha Noi Declaration on the Enhancement of Welfare and Development of ASEAN Women and Children (2010)

Bali Declaration on the Enhancement of the Role and Participation of the Persons with Disabilities in ASEAN Community (2011)

ASEAN Decade of Persons with Disabilities (2011-2020)

ASEAN Human Rights Declaration (2012)

ASEAN Declaration on the Elimination of Violence Against Women and Elimination of Violence Against Children (2013)

¹ Children - defined as individuals below the age of 18 years

² Youth - defined as individuals from 15 years old and above

5. HOW CAN CHILDREN INFLUENCE ASEAN TO FULFILL, RESPECT, PROMOTE, AND PROTECT THEIR RIGHTS?

Children can approach several offices in ASEAN to inform them about their issues, concerns, and recommendations. Under the ASEAN structure, children's issues are discussed within the ASEAN Socio-Cultural Community (ASCC) especially during the following events:

- ASEAN Ministerial Meeting on Social Welfare and Development (AMMSWD) – The AMMSWD is composed of the leaders of each country's Ministry/ Department of Social Welfare and Development.

The AMMSWD happens every three years. AMMSWD is supported by the Senior Officials Meeting on Social Welfare and Development (SOMSWD), another gathering of top government officials also working on social welfare, which happens once a year.

AMMSWD takes care of concerns of children below 18 years old.

- ASEAN Ministerial Meeting on Youth (AMMY) –

The AMMY is composed of the leaders of the Ministry/ Department of Youth Affairs or its equivalent in each country and happens once every two years. This gathering is supported by a gathering of high ranking government officials of the same office called the Senior Officials Meeting on Youth (SOMY). The SOMY happens once a year.

The AMMY takes care of concerns of individuals 15 years old and above.

There are also two bodies in ASEAN, the ASEAN Intergovernmental Commission on Human Rights (AICHR) and the ASEAN Commission for the Protection and Promotion of the Rights of Women and Children (ACWC), which work to support and protect the rights of children.

- The AICHR's main task is to promote and protect human rights of all the peoples in ASEAN, including children. It also advocates for countries to approve important international human rights instruments and conducts researches on human rights issues including children's rights.

- The ACWC is focused on women and children's concerns and supports advocacy efforts and programs for children and women's rights in ASEAN. It is responsible for conducting researches on the situation and well-being of women and children, encouraging ASEAN member countries to regularly review laws related to women's and children's rights, and supporting the participation of children in dialogues and consultation processes in ASEAN.

Lastly, there is also the ASEAN Children's Forum (ACF), which is organized to provide a space for children to share their thoughts and concerns. The ACF happens every two years. Children from different ASEAN member countries are invited to attend the forum to discuss the challenges they face and share recommendations on various issues that affect them.

6. WHY SHOULD CHILDREN PARTICIPATE IN ASEAN?

Children are very important members of the ASEAN community. Children must be able to participate in ASEAN processes/discussions because these are opportunities to make governments notice children's concerns and help them fulfill, support and protect their rights.

If children, for instance, have a hard time talking to their government leaders, they could relay their issues to ASEAN and ASEAN, in turn, can discuss these with the concerned government. Participating in ASEAN processes will also help children learn more about the culture and experiences of children living in other countries. It provides a way for children to work together to build a better community.

The participation of children in ASEAN should be meaningful. Meaningful participation of children means that the process must be:

- ☐ Voluntary
- ☐ Safe
- ☐ Respectful of children's views
- ☐ Child-friendly
- ☐ Includes all children, even those from poor communities
- ☐ Adults who support children must also be trained to assist them

It's really inspiring to know about ASEAN and how children can and should voice out their views to ASEAN about important issues that matter to them.

So fellow child rights advocates, we hope that you will join us in encouraging friends in your country to participate in the ASEAN processes to ensure that our rights are upheld!

Let our voices be heard in ASEAN!

To learn more about ASEAN and how children can influence it, read the "Guidebook on Spaces for Children's Participation in ASEAN" which you can download from this link: <http://childrightscoalitionasia.org/a-guidebook-on-spaces-for-childrens-participation-in-asean/>

Child Rights Coalition Asia

Child Rights Coalition (CRC) Asia is a network of child rights and human rights organizations currently working in eight countries in Southeast Asia. The Coalition has a special commitment and interest in ensuring the effective implementation of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) in the region and in promoting children's right to participation in matters that affect them.

visit us at www.childrightscoalitionasia.org

[illegible]

The Convention on the Rights of the Child has 54 articles in all. Articles 43-54 are about how adults and governments should work together to make sure all children get all their rights.

ARTICLE 1
Everyone under 18 years of age has all the rights in this Convention.

ARTICLE 1
Everyone under 18 years of age has all the rights in this Convention.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

The Convention applies to everyone, whatever their race, religion, abilities; whatever they think or say, whatever type of family they come from.

ARTICLE 3

All organisations concerned with children should work towards what is best for each child.

ARTICLE 3

All organisations concerned with children
should work towards what is best for each child.

[illegible]

[illegible]

ARTICLE 4

Article 4
Governments should make these rights available to children.

ARTICLE 5

Governments should respect the rights and responsibilities of families to direct and guide their children so that, as they grow, they learn to use their rights properly.

ARTICLE 5

Governments should respect the rights and responsibilities of families to direct and guide their children so that, as they grow, they learn to use their rights properly.

[illegible]

ARTICLE 6

ARTICLE 6
All children have the right to life. Governments should ensure that children survive and develop healthily.

All children have the right to a legally registered name, and nationality.
Also the right to know and, as far as possible, to be cared for by their parents.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

[illegible]

ARTICLE 8

Article 3
Governments should respect children's right to a name, a nationality and family ties.

ARTICLE 9
Children should not be separated from their parents unless it is for their own good. For example, if a parent is mistreating or neglecting a child. Children whose parents have separated have the right to stay in contact with both parents, unless this might hurt the child.

Children should not be separated from their parents unless it is for their own good. For example, if a parent is mistreating or neglecting a child. Children whose parents have separated have the right to stay in contact with both parents, unless this might hurt the child.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 10

Families who live in different countries should be allowed to move between those countries so that parents and children can stay in contact, or get back together as a family.

ARTICLE 11
Governments should take steps to stop children being taken out of their own country illegally.

ARTICLE 11
Governments should take steps to stop children
being taken out of their own country illegally.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 12

Children have the right to say what they think should happen, when adults are making decisions that affect them, and to have their opinions taken into account.

ARTICLE 13

Children have the right to get and to share information, as long as the information is not damaging to them or to others.

ARTICLE 13

Children have the right to get and to share information, as long as the information is not damaging to them or to others.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 14

Children have the right to think and believe what they want, and to practise their religion, as long as they are not stopping other people from enjoying their rights. Parents should guide their children on these matters.

Children have the right to meet together and to join groups and organisations, as long as this does not stop other people from enjoying their rights.

This image shows a single page of white paper with horizontal blue lines, resembling notebook paper. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 16

Children have a right to privacy. The law should protect them from attacks against their way of life, their good name, their families and their homes.

ARTICLE 17

Children have the right to reliable information from the mass media. Television, radio, and newspapers should provide information that children can understand, and should not promote materials that could harm children.

Children have the right to reliable information from the mass media. Television, radio, and newspapers should provide information that children can understand, and should not promote materials that could harm children.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 18

Both parents share responsibility for bringing up their children, and should always consider what is best for each child. Governments should help parents by providing services to support them, especially if both parents work.

Governments should ensure that children are properly cared for, and protect them from violence, abuse and neglect by their parents, or anyone else who looks after them.

Governments should ensure that children are properly cared for, and protect them from violence, abuse and neglect by their parents, or anyone else who looks after them.

This image shows a full page of blank handwriting practice paper. It features approximately 20 evenly spaced, horizontal light blue lines across the entire width of the page. The background is a solid off-white or cream color. There are no margins, text, or other markings present.

Children who cannot be looked after by their own family must be looked after properly, by people who respect their religion, culture and language.

ARTICLE 21

When children are adopted the first concern must be what is best for them. The same rules should apply whether the children are adopted in the country where they were born, or if they are taken to live in another country.

[illegible]

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

Children who come into a country as refugees should have the same rights as children born in that country.

Children who have any kind of disability should have special care and support, so that they can lead full and independent lives.

Children who have any kind of disability should have special care and support, so that they can lead full and independent lives.

[illegible]

ARTICLE 24

Children have the right to good quality health care, to clean water, nutritious food, and a clean environment, so that they will stay healthy. Rich countries should help poorer countries achieve this.

Children who are looked after by their local authority, rather than their parents, should have their situation reviewed regularly.

Children who are looked after by their local authority, rather than their parents, should have their situation reviewed regularly.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 26

The Government should provide extra money for the children of families in need.

ARTICLE 27
Children have a right to a standard of living that is good enough to meet their physical and mental needs. The Government should help families who cannot afford to provide this.

Children have a right to a standard of living that is good enough to meet their physical and mental needs. The Government should help families who cannot afford to provide this.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 28

All children and young people have a right to a primary education, which should be free. Wealthy countries should help poorer countries achieve this. Discipline in schools should respect children's human dignity. Young people should be encouraged to reach the highest level of education they are capable of.

All children and young people have a right to a primary education, which should be free. Wealthy countries should help poorer countries achieve this. Discipline in schools should respect children's human dignity. Young people should be encouraged to reach the highest level of education they are capable of.

ARTICLE 29

Education should develop each child's personality and talents to the full. It should encourage children to respect their parents, and their own and other cultures.

ARTICLE 29

Education should develop each child's personality and talents to the full. It should encourage children to respect their parents, and their own and other cultures.

[illegible]

ARTICLE 31
All children have a right to relax and play,
and to join in a wide range of activities.

ARTICLE 31
All children have a right to relax and play,
and to join in a wide range of activities.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 32

The Government should protect children from work that is dangerous, or might harm their health or their education.

ARTICLE 33
The Government should provide ways
of protecting children from dangerous drugs.

ARTICLE 33
The Government should provide ways
of protecting children from dangerous drugs.

This image shows a full page of blank, lined paper. It features approximately 20 horizontal blue lines spaced evenly across the page, typical of notebook or primary writing paper. The lines are light blue and extend from the left margin to the right edge. There is no handwriting, text, or other markings on the page.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 34

The Government should protect children from sexual abuse.

ARTICLE 35
The Government should make sure that children are not abducted or sold.

ARTICLE 35
The Government should make sure that children are not abducted or sold.

[illegible]

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 36

Children who break the law should not be treated cruelly. They should not be put in prison with adults and should be able to keep in contact with their families.

Children who break the law should not be treated cruelly. They should not be put in prison with adults and should be able to keep in contact with their families.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 38

Governments should not allow children under 16 to join the army.

Children who have been neglected or abused should receive special help to restore their self-respect.

Children who have been neglected or abused should receive special help to restore their self-respect.

[illegible]

ARTICLE 40

Children who are accused of breaking the law should receive legal help.
Prison sentences for children should only be used for the most serious offences.

ARTICLE 41

If the laws of a particular country protect children better than the articles of the Convention, then those laws should stay.

[illegible]

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

ARTICLE 42

The Government should make the Convention known to parents and children.

WHOSE RESPONSIBILITY?

Children's rights are a special case because many of the rights laid down in the Convention on the Rights of the Child have to be provided by adults or the state.

WHOSE RESPONSIBILITY?

Children's rights are a special case because many of the rights laid down in the Convention on the Rights of the Child have to be provided by adults or the state.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

[illegible]

However, the Convention also refers to the responsibilities of children, in particular to respect the rights of others, especially their parents (Article 29).

Let Your Voices Be Heard in ASEAN © 2015 by Child Rights Coalition Asia

Child Rights Coalition Asia
Unit 602 FSS Building 1
20 Scout Castor Street corner Scout Tuason
Barangay Laging Handa, Quezon City, Philippines
Phone: (632) 413-28-55
Email: secretariat.crcasia@gmail.com
Website: www.childrightscoalitionasia.org

A publication of Child Rights Coalition Asia

Text: Child Rights Coalition Asia
Publication design and illustrations: R Jordan P. Santos

This publication was produced with the support of Save the Children

The child-friendly text of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child is from Children's Rights and Responsibilities, UNICEF, United Kingdom.
Reprinted with the permission of UNICEF

This publication may not be reproduced or transmitted without written permission from the publisher.

Child Rights
Coalition Asia

Save the Children